

What is the main source of energy in Singapore?

The main source of energy in Singapore is fossil fuels. Currently, oil and natural gas account for over 95% of total energy generation. Over the last decade, natural gas has gained a larger energy share due to the country's first shift in energy production.

Where is BW energy located?

BW Energy is represented in all major oil and gas regions worldwide in Africa, the Americas, Asia and Europe. BW Energy has its beginnings as the E&P arm of Oslo-listed BW Offshore. BW Energy has access to existing production facilities to reduce time to first oil and cashflow with lower investments than traditional offshore developments.

What is the role of EMA in Singapore's transition to renewables?

Singapore's EMA plays an essential role in the country's transition to renewables. Its policies have the power to promote or discourage investment in renewables. Energy Market Authority sets the standards for Renewable Energy Certificates (REC). It also licenses companies to retail electricity in the open electricity market.
