

Power up company Uganda

Uganda-based electric cooking startup PowerUP has announced the initial close of its seed round to expand to new geographies and products. PowerUP develops and ...

We are a product design company with a deep understanding of how to grow markets by leveraging carbon finance. The focus: develop household appliances that reduce carbon emissions while delivering income and health benefits ...

Developer of clean-tech products designed to reduce carbon emissions and improve cooking efficiency for households in low-income contexts. The company offers innovative cooking ...

PowerUP, a Uganda-based electric cooking start-up has announced initial close of its seed round led by Delta40, the Nairobi-based venture studio and VC fund championing inclusive climate ventures with participation from Autodesk ...

PowerUP, a Uganda-based electric cooking start-up has announced initial close of its seed round led by Delta40, the Nairobi-based venture studio and VC fund championing ...

Uganda-based electric cooking startup, PowerUP, secures seed funding round for market expansion and product enhancement. PowerUP develops smart-metered PAYGO electric stoves tailored for African markets, improving cooking solutions for over 40,000 households across multiple countries.

Explore how PowerUP, the Uganda-based electric cooking start-up, is leading a transformative journey towards clean and efficient cooking solutions in Africa. The successful seed round, led by Delta40, signifies a pivotal step in expanding the company's reach and impact.

is a clean-tech product development company focused on building the best and most appropriate products for customers in low Income contexts. Our Mission is to develop irresistible products ...

Uganda-based electric cooking startup, PowerUP, secures seed funding round for market expansion and product enhancement. PowerUP develops smart-metered PAYGO ...

PowerUP, the Uganda-based electric cooking start-up has announced initial close of its seed round led by Delta40, the Nairobi-based venture studio and VC fund championing inclusive climate ventures with participation from Autodesk ...

is a clean-tech product development company focused on building the best and most appropriate products for customers in low Income contexts. Our Mission is to develop irresistible products that make it possible, and exciting, for all people to use the cleanest modern technology.

Power up company Uganda

Explore how PowerUP, the Uganda-based electric cooking start-up, is leading a transformative journey towards clean and efficient cooking solutions in Africa. The successful seed round, led by Delta40, signifies a ...

Developer of clean-tech products designed to reduce carbon emissions and improve cooking efficiency for households in low-income contexts. The company offers innovative cooking appliances with eco-friendly features, enabling environmentally conscious consumers to cook faster and cheaper while enhancing their health and financial well-being.

PowerUP, the Uganda-based electric cooking start-up has announced initial close of its seed round led by Delta40, the Nairobi-based venture studio and VC fund championing ...

With over 40,000 homes impacted across Kenya, Uganda, Tanzania, Zambia, and Ghana, PowerUP is on a mission to expand distribution, build data platforms, and launch shared carbon programs.

Uganda-based electric cooking startup PowerUP has announced the initial close of its seed round to expand to new geographies and products. PowerUP develops and deploys smart-metered PAYGO electric stoves customised for the African markets, with these solutions having so far cleaned up cooking in over 40,000 homes across Kenya, Uganda, Tanzania ...

Web: <https://ssn.com.pl>

